Biography

Stan Raucher was born and raised in Saint Paul, Minnesota, during the age of black and white television, Life magazine photo documentaries, and the publication of The Family of Man. He received his BA (1970) and Ph.D. (1973) in chemistry from the University of Minnesota, and he was Professor of Chemistry at the University of Washington from 1975 to 2011. He has studied with many renowned photographers, including Keith Carter, Garciela Iturbide, Ed Kashi, Antonin Kratochvil, Costa Manos, Mary Ellen Mark, Eugene Richards, Peter Turnley and Alex Webb. For over a decade, he has been documenting aspects of the human condition around the globe with candid photography that opens a window to the world that surrounds us here and now.
